From the London Gazette.

FLORENCE, July 18.

LETTERS from Basilia say, that on the 8th instant, three Spanish xebecks and fourteen transports, having on board 970 expulsed Jesuits, got under sail, and that orders were sent to the other transports, lying in the gulph of St. Fiorenzo, to proceed to Calvi, Algaiola, and Ajaccio, and to land the Jesuits at those places; the whole number of whom, arrived in Corsica, is 2308; and that orders were sent, at the same time, to the commanding officers of the French troops in those places, that, as soon as the Jesuits were landed, they should embark with the troops, on board the transports that carried the Jesuits, and proceed to France.

Berlin, July 28. Last Saturday in the evening, the marriage of the Princess Louisa-Henrietta Wilhelmina of Brandenbourg, with the reigning Prince of Anhalt Dessau, was solemnized in the royal chapel at Charlottenbourg, by the Rev. Mr. Sack, first chaplain to the king of Prussia; at which ceremony his majesty, and the rest of the royal family, the foreign ministers, and the nobility, assisted.

Yesterday in the evening the ceremony of betrothing and exchanging of rings, between her royal highness the princess Wilhelmina of Prussia, and his serene highness the prince of Orange, was performed at Charlottenbourg in the presence of his Prussian majesty, and the rest of the royal family, &c.

Genoa, July 27. This morning arrived here a Spanish ship of war, of 70 guns from Calvi. By the last letters from Corsica we hear, that the French troops have evacuated Algaiola, and had retired to Calvi.

[Dust for the London Gazette.]

Genoa, July 4. The last letters from Spain acquaint us, that the expulsion of the Jesuits is done in America in all the king's dominions with a great deal of order and tranquility. They add, that Don Antonio de Triaches, Marquis of Grenada, has been arrested and conducted into the fort, but we know not the reason.

Warsaw, July 11. The king having been indisposed for some days past, prevented his giving audience to the deputies from the general confederacy, which the malecontents have formed at Radom.

Genoa, July 11. The Sieurs Necko, father and son, are gone to Corsica, in order to adjust every thing relative to the settlement of the Spanish Jesuits in that island.

The government have ordered out several men of war, designed for the protection of our navigation against the pirates of the malecontents of Corsica.

Mittau, July 15. A report prevails, that the senate of Venice has offered prince Charles, second son to the duke our sovereign, the command in chief of the troops of the republic, but that his highness has replyed, that he could not accept the offer, unless upon condition that they confer on him the character of Field-Marshal general, the same rank which the late Count Schulenburg had.

Warsaw, July 18. It is said that several prelates of the kingdom are preparing an act of accession to the general confederacy. Among them are the archbishop of Lemberg, the prince bishop of Cracow, and the bishop of Kaminieck. It is added, that the new primate has had some private conferences with them on this subject.

Varsovia, July 18. The king has signed the universalia for the convocation of the diet on the 5th of October next, and for the holding of the Diets which ought to precede it. The Diets both in Poland and Lithuania are fixed to the 7th of September. It is not yet known where the general confederacy of the crown will hold their sessions, to re-unite themselves to that of the Grand Duchy.

Dantzick, July 23. The new Primate having acceded to the general confederacy, a deputation of eight canons was lately sent to him at Radom, to beg of him, in the name of the clergy, to consult the welfare of the Catholic religion. The prelate answered them in presence of Prince Radzivil, that he would take care that religion should suffer no prejudice, without losing sight, however, of the interests of those powers who intercede in favour of the Dissidents.

Paris, July 27. The duke of York supped with the king the 23d instant, and his highness is treated at court with all possible politeness, though he chooses to remain incognito.

Paris, July 31. They write from Compiegne, that all the foreign ministers, and the principal nobility, are alternately entertaining the duke of York in the most brillant manner; and his highness is often with the royal family. The princesses having asked that prince how he liked the troops which he had seen reviewed, he made answer, I am so well satisfied with their manœuvres, & think them so fine and well disciplined, that I hope, for the sake of my brother, never to see them but on the plain of Royal-Lieu.

Paris, August 3. It is certain that the court has sent orders to the Count de Marbœuf, to send back to Provence three Battalions, which form one half of our troops in that Island. The motive of this recall is variously interpreted, some saying that, the senate of Genoa has given his majesty occasion of complaint; others, that it is intended to prevent a scarcity of provisions in Corsica, which might be brought on there by the arrival of the Spanish Jesuits; besides it must be a matter of indifference to the republick, whether the places they possess there, be occupied by six battalions or three, as the malcontents dare not attack them, so long as they are under the guard and protection of France.

LONDON, AUGUST 1.

ON Thursday last was married at Rothwell in Yorkshire, Joseph Sharp, of Bowling House, aged 85, to Ann Wilson, aged 23. They were attended to the church by a great concourse of people; and the bridegroom had the misfortune to lose his horse in the hurry, and was obliged to be carried home in a coal cart. We are credibly informed that the right hon. Francis Andrews, Esq; provost of Trinity College, Dublin, has the same interest to get himself appointed lord chancellor of Ireland that the late lord Bowes had when he was appointed, viz. the interest of the Duke of B——; but it is much doubted whether it is as prevailing now as it was then.

The Lord Marshal of Scotland is expected in London in September next from Berlin.

We hear that some people take upon them to predict (upon what grounds we know not) that the high chancellorship of Great B—— will be vacant before that of Ireland is filled up; so that it seems these two great offices will be disposed of at one time, which of course will cause several other important changes in the law department.

We are credibly informed, that a great personage's late resignation of a very high office was by no means voluntary, he having previously declared, that if it was taken from him he never would accept of any other place from the C——t, especially while the present M——y continued in power, at whose behaviour he is so much irritated, that it's thought he will be a perpetual thorn in their side for the future, both in the C——t and in a certain great assembly.

The first perquisite of a lord lieutenant of Ireland is 6000l. for plate, and to put him in motion as it is called. The salary is 8000l. per annum, being increased from 12,000l. ever since the earl of Halifax's time; so that while they stay in England, the savings are intended to secure them against the expence when on the spot; should they not go, the profits are clear.

Besides Newmark, the towns of Lessin, Roden, Schoedie, Berend, and Tuchel, have not subscribed to the said confederacy.

The master on his return home, and examining the contents, found, to his great mortification and surprize, a tiny girl fast asleep, which appeared to be about three days old.

We hear that the Earl of Chatham's present illness is principally a nervous fever, attended with a kind of rheumatick ague, affecting the head chiefly; and is supposed to have been occasioned by his journey to town from Bath in a fit of the gout, in the severest weather of last winter. Dr. Addington now resides in his lordship's house, as his Accounts from Genoa say, that the inhabitants of Calvi, in concert with the Corsicans, had conveyed arms to be brought into the city, concealed in sacks and bavins, with design to enable them to oppose the landing of the Genoese when the French troops were embarked; but the plot having been discovered, the French commandant seized the arms and apprehended seven of the principal inhabitants.

We are informed from Paris, that M. Sellius, celebrated for his vast erudition and voluminous works, but more especially for the first project of the Encyclopedia, which he carried from England to France in the year 1743, died a few days since at Charenton, miserable and mad.

The same correspondent also writes, that the celebrated and singular M. Cd*me is attacked with a very extraordinary malady, which seems made for him: it is a palsy on the senses; that is to say, his organs maintain the same play, the same activity, but without energy, without his being sensible of their functions: he walks but knows not whether it is on pavement or feathers; he eats, without being able to distinguish what sort of aliment it is that supports him; neither the perfume of flowers, nor the most disagreeable scents, in the least affect his smelling; as to hearing, it is known that he has been deaf a long time; his eyes only seem still to preserve their use. He has consulted his friend Mons. Tronchin, who declares that such a case has never before come under his knowledge.

The ingenious author and philosopher M. Sede, after living some time with a lady who was charmed with his wit and talents, became, in his turn, lately enamoured with a young woman, the daughter of an advocate, and resolved to marry her. The lady being informed of this from his own mouth, and, after many efforts, having nothing to hope from his heart, addressed herself to the damsel, who had no fortune, and offered her 5000 livres if she would only defer her marriage for a year: but the latter, preferring her lover to money, rejected the proposal, and espoused Mr. Sede. Saturday night a man living in St. Giles's, having struck his wife for scolding him, and getting herself drunk with gin, she immediately like an Amazonian heroine, snatched up a knife and cut off a piece of his nose, for which it is thought he would have killed her, had it not been for the interposition of friends who made up the quarrel, by making them both take a more plentiful dose of the same cordial, which put them into a perfect good humour with each other.

AUGUST 20.

Yesterday the lord Chancellor came to town from Camden-Place, and afterwards attended a council at Mr. Secretary Conway's office in Cleveland-Row.

NEW-YORK, September 14.

ON Tuesday came up from the Hook, where she arrived Saturday last, the 19th inst. the ship Eagle, Capt. Markham, having on board two companies of the Royal Train of Artillery, which we hear are to relieve some of those who have been some time on this station, who are expected to go home in the same vessel in about three weeks.

Extract of a letter from London, July 18 1767.

"The bill respecting the East-India company dividend, passed the lords with some difficulty, but the ministry is all firm again; for secretary Conway, about a fortnight ago (in consequence of a promise he made to the Devonshire family, when he came into place, that he would keep it no longer than to the end of the session, unless their friends are taken in) declared his intentions to resign, and only holds his office till a successor is appointed. This single circumstance (like removing a prop from an old building) hath thrown the whole ministry into confusion, and ever since they have been endeavouring to support the present fabrick with all their might, in order to keep out those who are greatly obnoxious to B—— from thrusting themselves into power. Many conferences have been holden, and various proposals offered.——Charles Townshend hath been offered the secretaryship, but he wants to be first lord of the treasury, and for this end he is paying great court to lord Bute. Lord Mansfield hath been offered the presidentship of the council, in the room of lord Northington, who is grown so feeble, as to be utterly unfit for any business, which he hath refused, even though, it is said an earldom was to be added to it. Lord Chatham still continuing in a hopeless way, his place of lord privy seal hath been proposed to the duke of Bedford, which he likewise declines.——The principal difficulty of all these great men is, the bringing in their friends and adherents, which cannot be complied with, without overturning the whole fabrick; and yet they cannot in honour accept while they are left in the lurch. This is the natural and unavoidable consequence of our chiefs engaging themselves in faction, and of our want of some steady and able hand to keep them in order, and bring them back to their duty. Mr. Conway having behaved most unexceptionably in his office, during the whole session, the king is extremely averse to part with him, and hath had him several times in conference with him, endeavouring to adjust matters; and from the length of the negociation (which has lasted now for ten days) I am hopeful they have a view of bringing things to bear. This as a friend to my country, without any partial views respecting individuals, I most sincerely wish.—In the East-Indies, the affairs of the East India company are in a most flourishing condition.—Prince Ferdinand hath lately obtained an additional annuity of two thousand pounds, upon the Irish establishment (in all four thousand pounds) which he richly merits from this country, for his able and successful conduct during the last war.

In another letter of July 18, it is said that the ministry remained quite unsettled.—And that a great personage had wrote a letter, with his own hand, to lord Chatham, desiring his advice; to which he returned a verbal message (for he could not write) that he was incapable of thinking, or attending to any business whatever.

NEW LONDON, October 2.

Yesterday arrived here in 17 days from Monto-Christi, the brig Two-Brothers, [illegible] belonging to Norwich. He informs that a schooner sailed from the Mount a few days before him, with 25 soldiers on board; who, as it was reported, were gone to take possession of Turk's Island for the crown of Spain, having, it was said, a commission for that purpose.

New York, Oct. 12. We hear Joseph Read, Esq; is appointed deputy secretary, clerk of the council, clerk of the supreme court, surrogate general and register of the province of New-Jersey.

Yesterday arrived here from Halifax, his majesty's ship the Glasgow, of 30 guns: In said ship came passenger the right hon. Lord William Campbell, governor of said province, in order to take a passage for Great Britain.

Extract of a letter from London, August 8, 1767.

"I am very glad to find the people of New-York have provided, by an act of assembly, for the subsistence of the military in their province, as the law made here directs; and I hope all heart-burnings, between the colonies and Britain, will now gradually subside. It can never be good policy, in any future ministry, to promote any measure whatever wilfully to distress them, they cannot, at least for a great while to come, subsist without the protection of this country; and, in short, our mutual prosperity must consist in our union, and in our cordial attachment to each other.

Extract of a letter from a merchant in London, August 7.

"It is truly melancholy to reflect on the present state of publick affairs here:—The confusion among our great men still continues—who, instead of exerting their abilities in the time of peace with foreign powers, to extend the commerce of the kingdom, pay off the national debt, and increase the strength and power of the nations to support a future war, are wasting their whole time in party contentions, intrigues, and cabals, to establish their own power, and the profit attending it; and in abusing one another.

Extract of another letter from London, dated August 6.

"The general affairs of America here, bear a very disagreeable aspect; the present ministry are like to continue some time longer—some particular changes will happen, and I fear the principal structure will not be of long duration, but probably there will be another session of parliament before a considerable alteration is made.—The opposition to America seems to increase. Every step is taken to render the taxation of the colonies a popular measure, and it is contended that they should be obliged explicitly to acknowledge the right. I know not what to advise on this occasion, but that the friends of America, on both sides the water, shall exert their utmost endeavours to lessen the present unpopularity of the American cause; conciliate the affections of the people here towards you, increase by all possible means the number of your friends, and be careful not to weaken their hands, and strengthen those of your enemies, by rash proceedings, the mischiefs of which are inconceivable."

Boston, Sept. 21. We hear from Brookfield, that one John Watt of that place, going out very early in the morning of the 14th inst. to take care of his fat oxen in his pasture, within a few rods of his house, to his great surprize, discovered with his cattle a Moose, which, after having gone back and taken his gun, he instantly killed. It was eighteen hands in height, and weighed 626 lb. The horns were 23 inches long, and from horn to horn at the ends thereof 2 feet 7 inches; on each horn were two branches, the first 11, and the other 7 inches.

CHARLES-TOWN, October 26.

THE General Assembly of this province, is to meet, according to a Journement, on Tuesday fortnight the 3d of November, for the dispatch of business.

The Court of General Sessions of the Peace, Oyer and Terminer, Assize and General Jail Delivery, which began to be holden on Monday last, continues going, there being 50 or 55 criminals in custody for trial, mostly for capital offences, many of them for murder & horse-stealing, in the back-settlements, which, tho' the disorders mentioned in our last still continue, we hope soon to see good order restored, as the principal obstacle to the establishment of county or circuit courts is in a fair way of being removed.

Charles Dewsy, Esq; (co-partner of Mr. John Dawson) is appointed collector of his Majesty's customs in Rhode-Island, in the room of the present collector, who is promoted and made one of the commissioners.

On Sunday the 11th instant, Mr. Bryan Fogarty, one of our pilots, boarded a brigantine from Pensacola, bound for this port, names unknown, that had lost her main-topmast, most of her sails, all her anchors but one, and was quite destitute of provisions and water; the wind being then at west, he drove by her so as not to speak her; the next day the pilot-boat cabbed, and has not since been heard of: 'tis feared she was lost in the storm of the 16th and 17th instant, as almost every vessel that has since arrived at the bar, and some have met with many pieces of wreck.——The ship Nan-Nancy, George Jordan, master, from London, who arrived last Monday, sailed, but being at a great distance from the coast, and the wind favourable, received no damage.——The Sloop Sally, John Schermerhorn master, from New-York, was obliged to heave-to both days, and met with little hurt.——The Brigt. Prince of Wales, Thomas Mason, master, from Philadelphia, in six days, came out of the Capes with her, was obliged to throw overboard some horses, sheep, and barrels of apples that were upon deck, and lay-to one day; but has not received the least damage in her cargo.——The ship General Wolfe, Stephen Maclain master, which sailed from hence for Cape-Fear the 7th, with 60 Highland prisoners on board, had all her sails torn to pieces, and rigging much hurt, so that she was obliged to put in here again the 22d.——The ship Betty, Robert Davidson master, from the Bay of Honduras, bound for Jamaica, also suffered in it, and put in here the 21st for provisions.——His majesty's ship Cygnet, commanded by Philip Durell, Esq; which sailed from hence for England the 12th, returned the 23d, a very little, having shipped several seas, carried away one quarter-gallery, have her sheet anchor, guns, carriages, and all loose lumber upon deck overboard, stove in her dead lights, rudder-case, with 6 feet 10 inches and five strakes deep of her larboard quarter, and had several men wounded.——The brigt. Ann, Peter Seymour master, which also sailed from hence the 12th, for Poole, having sprung her bowsprit, broke a beam, split her sails, and four feet water in her hold, likewise put back the 23d: Capt. Seymour, from the time of his leaving this port, kept company with the brigt. Hope, Robert Whitelock master, bound for London, till the 19th at noon, when she suddenly disappeared, and he fears foundered.——The brigt. Mary, James Dickson, from Jamaica, bound for Liverpoole, which also put in here the 23d, sprung her bowsprit, had her sails split, and sprung a leak, by which 'tis apprehended her lower tier of sugar is damaged.——The gale seems to have been felt a day earlier at sea than here, all the way from Philadelphia, perhaps farther North, and to have been most violent on the 16th.

Passengers arrived since our last.—In Capt. Jordan, from London, Capt. Coulat, an engineer, appointed commander of Fort Johnston in North-Carolina, and to survey that province, Mr. Thomson, going to Philadelphia, and others.—In capt. Schermerhorn, from New-York, Major Lubkin, surgeon to the detachment of the Royal American regiment here, commanded by Capt. Valentine Fuser, and others.—In capt. Mason, from Philadelphia, Mr. Robert Smyth, Mr. John Dean, and Mr. Isaac Leffler, merchants, Mrs. Dean, Mrs. Leffler, colonel Christian Minick, Messrs. John Glen, Joseph Whitall, Joseph Biddle, Joshua Shreve, William Sikes, and others.—And, in Capt. Higgins, from London, Edward Thomas, Esq; and others.

Just now we have received the following account from Georgia.—"That the ship Hawke, John Lightenstone master, of and from Savannah, bound for London, sailed from Tybee on Monday the 24th instant, with the wind westerly; but before 12 o'clock at noon the next day, in the Gulf stream, the wind having shifted to N. E. blowing a hard gale, and the sea running very high, the ship sprung a leak, which kept both pumps constantly going; at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the gale increasing, sprung the foremast and fore-topmast, and carried away the fore-topsail; at 5, the sea running still higher, both pumps were hardly sufficient to keep the ship above water, and the sailors refused pumping unless the captain would bear away, which he accordingly did that afternoon, for Savannah, having many of his people sick, and seeing the impossibility of proceeding any further with the ship in that distressed situation, which was soon after aggravated by the tiller's breaking short off, and the sea running so high and confused that no other could be fixed immediately; the ship then flew up in the wind, split her mainsail and main-topsail, and in that condition lay-to under the foresail till the next morning, every moment in danger of losing both rudder and stern-post; the carpenter however, with great difficulty, the next morning (Wednesday) made the old tiller serve again. Thursday the 15th, about 10 o'clock in the morning, the wind at N. N. E. saw Tybee light house, bearing W. by N. distant about 4 leagues; at twelve at noon ran in, with a fresh gale, 4 fathom water, but no pilot coming off, & the wind blowing fresh to leeward, was obliged to stand off that night, tho' in the utmost danger of sinking, lying then half-leg deep in water, with only five men able to go to the pumps. The seamen being now quite worn out with fatigue, the captain determined next morning (Friday) to run in for the first inlet which should present itself, and proved to be Sapello; but the ship drawing 17 feet water, struck on the bar, or a reef of hard sand, about 3 miles from the shore, at 12 o'clock at noon; the sea running very high, almost immediately carried away her rudder, and started the main plank in the cabin. It was then thought time to hoist out the boats; the yawl was instantly stove to pieces by the breakers along side; but the long boat was happily got safe out, in which the passengers, the hon. Daniel Moore, Esq; and Mr. Nathaniel Hall, and all the ship's company (21 in number) arrived on Blackbeard Island. The ship and cargo is entirely lost, nor has any thing been seen to drive on shore, but a part of the head and flying-jib boom."

The Snow Adonis, mentioned in our last to have been drove ashore on the 17th instant, having been lightened, was on Wednesday last got off, by Capt. Thomas Tucker, formerly one of our pilots, and brought up to town. Her cargo seems not to have suffered.

On Thursday last, Mr. Alexander Alexander, school-master, was married to Miss Rachel Anderson. All wise.

Last night, the honourable John Burn, Esq; one of the members of his Majesty's council, to Mrs. Anne Baron, widow of the late Rev. Mr. Alexander Baron. And,

Mr. David Ourrard, to Miss Judith De St. Julien.
